

Open Letter to POTUS Biden—A Warm Welcome to India and Suggestions for a Successful G20 Meeting

WASHINGTON, DC, USA, September 8, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dr. Krishnan Suthanthiran, President/Founder of TeamBest Global Companies, arrived in the U.S. in June 1972 as a Landed Immigrant and is now an American citizen. Having lived in the Washington, DC area for 51 years, and as an Indo-American, he has keenly observed the ebbs and flows of the relationship between India and the United States.

Since the Independence of India in 1947—nearly 76 years ago—there has been a progression of the warming of the relationship between India, the most populous Democratic country, and the U.S., the pillar of global security, stability, democratic values, and freedom for all. The U.S. has increasingly come to value the importance and significance of a stronger bond with India for both countries' mutual security and prosperity. Prime Minister Modi, to his credit, upon becoming the Prime Minister of India in 2014, recognized the importance of a close relationship with the U.S. and began to court every President since then—President Barack Obama, President Trump, and now President Biden. All three Presidents too recognized the huge significance and importance of a close relationship with India.

Today, India and the U.S. have come full circle in recognizing the important benefits of this strong and ever-lasting partnership. During PM Modi's first State visit and second address to the Joint Session of Congress, the U.S. and Indian governments reiterated this strong bond of friendship and partnership for global peace and prosperity.
